In Support of Charleston Stage

The Theatre Society of 1736, named for the year the Historic Dock Street Theatre opened to bring theatre to the City of Charleston, is a new society of Charlestonians who wish to promote the growing professionalism, creativity and excellence of Charleston Stage performances and arts education programs. Society Fellowships provide support for professional actors and musicians from across the U.S. who join Charleston Stage and underwrite its extensive arts education programs which reach over 20,000 Lowcountry youth each season. Fellowship levels honor Charleston's theatrical Literary Leaders. The Theatre Society was formerly known as Director's Circle.
